DAY IN THE LIFE AT BALLET SCHOOL
by Camille Ribeiro

My day starts with breakfast which follows with my daily warm up routine and a 2 hour ballet class. After ballet we have a short break to stretch and then 2 hours of academics before lunch. After lunch we usually have a variety of strength and conditioning classes for 2 hours which include Pilates and gym work. After that we have another short break which is followed by 2 hours of training such as pointe work, solos, pas de deux, contemporary, jazz or flamenco depending on the day. I then finish my day with dinner and 2 more hours of practicing in the studios in my own free time. I do this Monday to Friday, on Saturday I do my own practising and my own gym work to stay fit and healthy. Sunday is my rest day. I am loving every second and am incredibly happy here at Elmhurst Ballet School. Looking forward to seeing you all at the show in April!

PERFORMING ON A CRUISE SHIP!

Firstly I hope all of you are well and had an amazing Christmas and New Year! Just a short update on my travels and the adventures of performing on a cruise ship!

Ship life is a job like no other... on board I have two production shows (1 hour in length) and 2 Evening Sets (30mins) which I perform in turn on board every cruise. This means like any other job I'm singing every day to varied audiences on board the cruise. My days off however are spent exploring the western Caribbean and America which are as beautiful as I'd hoped they would be. Personally it's been a very warm Christmas this year which is peculiar but thoroughly enjoyable and New Year's Eve was spent in Cozumel, Mexico!

Cruise life is just beyond words, meeting new people on every cruise, seeing the world and singing for my supper, I really can't complain. I miss everyone back home and at JSD so much and I wish you all an amazing term full of fun! Can't wait to see you all in April!
